The visual rules

Calm hierarchy

Neutral surfaces first. Green identifies action.

Product focus

Readable names, clear prices, consistent images.

Honest scope

Undefined requirements stay visibly unresolved.

Color and type

Semantic tokens keep emphasis, feedback, and hierarchy consistent across student and admin contexts.

Use dark text on pale fills. White labels belong on approved dark fills. Never rely on green, red, or gray alone to explain a state.

Controls with clear feedback

Button, input, and validation treatments are reusable; field constraints still come from the agreed requirements.
